

To honor my friend’s artistic talent and to display their gorgeous floral arrangements, I created a magazine about their flower shop. My passion for photography enabled me to capture the vibrant colors and delicate details of each bouquet, bringing their work to life visually. Through our creative collaboration, this project not only showcases my friend’s talent but also strengthens our connection. My goal as a photographer is to encourage people to see the beauty and smile found in flowers. This magazine is an expression of my dedication to helping my friend’s business and combining my passion for photography with the floral design industry.
